

Cardiovascular Disease and Lupus

Lupus Fact Sheet

Many conditions associated with lupus may increase your risk of cardiovascular disease. A sedentary lifestyle may result from extreme lupus fatigue, while lack of exercise and steroid use often resulting in weight gain. Having lupus may relate to an increase risk of cardiovascular disease, therefore it is important to take preventative measures. This article outlines the cardiovascular risk factors and preventative measures.