

Immunosuppressive Drugs Used in Treating Lupus

Lupus Fact Sheet

This article addresses the use of immunosuppressive drugs in lupus. It identifies the different types of drugs and lists the possible side effects. The article also places a special note on pregnancy, lactation and the use of immunosuppressive drugs. It is necessary to weigh the risks against the benefits before taking any drug. This fact sheet will help sort out the complications associated with immunosuppressive drugs so you can make an informed decision.