

Moderator: Why do legs swell on a plane?

Dr. Yeo: That is because of hydrostatic pressure and the economy syndrome. Increased venous pressure causes fluid to leak in your feet. The easy way to get around it is to wear support stockings and walk around the plane. Note: The swelling does not correlate with venous thrombosis risk. That is something different.